Former Philosophy Journal Editors Reflect on History

The Journal of the History of Philosophy has reached into its past to celebrate the 50th volume of the influential journal. Each of the four issues this year will feature an essay from a former editor.

Richard “Red” Watson, who served a one-year term as editor in 1983, provided the first essay in Volume 50, Number 1, published in January 2012. The journal is published by the Johns Hopkins University Press.

Watson had his first article published in JHP in the second issue of the initial volume in December 1963. In addition to his reflection, Watson recorded a podcast discussing his term and his thoughts on the importance of the journal. The episode is available at http://www.press.jhu.edu/journals/podcasts.html. The January issue also contains five essays as well as a number of book reviews.

Current editor Steven Nadler said the other essays will come from David Fate Norton, Jerry Press, Rudi Makkreel and Tad Schmaltz.

The journal was founded in December 1957 in response to a motion passed by the Eastern Division of the American Philosophical Association. JHP is an internationally recognized quarterly that publishes peer-reviewed articles, notes, discussions, and book reviews devoted to the history of Western philosophy, broadly conceived.

---FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE---

February 23, 2012

Former Philosophy Journal Editors Reflect on History

The Journal of the History of Philosophy has reached into its past to celebrate the 50th volume of the influential journal. Each of the four issues this year will feature an essay from a former editor.

Richard “Red” Watson, who served a one-year term as editor in 1983, provided the first essay in Volume 50, Number 1, published in January 2012. The journal is published by the Johns Hopkins University Press.

Watson had his first article published in JHP in the second issue of the initial volume in December 1963. In addition to his reflection, Watson recorded a podcast discussing his term and his thoughts on the importance of the journal. The episode is available at http://www.press.jhu.edu/journals/podcasts.html. The January issue also contains five essays as well as a number of book reviews.

Current editor Steven Nadler said the other essays will come from David Fate Norton, Jerry Press, Rudi Makkreel and Tad Schmaltz.

The journal was founded in December 1957 in response to a motion passed by the Eastern Division of the American Philosophical Association. JHP is an internationally recognized quarterly that publishes peer-reviewed articles, notes, discussions, and book reviews devoted to the history of Western philosophy, broadly conceived.

About The Johns Hopkins University Press

Founded in 1878, The Johns Hopkins University Press is recognized as one of the world’s finest and most accomplished scholarly publishers. Today, in addition to a broad catalog of titles, The Press publishes more than 70 scholarly periodicals and more than 200 new books each year in the arts and humanities, technology and medicine, higher education, history, political science, and library science.