Estrangement and the Somatics of Literature
Tolstoy, Shklovsky, Brecht
Douglas Robinson

Drawing together the estrangement theories of Viktor Shklovsky and Bertolt Brecht with Leo Tolstoy's theory of infection, Robinson studies the ways in which shared evaluative affect regulates both literary familiarity—convention and tradition—and modern strategies of alienation, depersonalization, and malaise.

2008 352 pp. 978-0-8018-8796-3 $65.00 hardcover

Gothic and Modernism
Essaying Dark Literary Modernity
edited by John Paul Riquelme

This collection of essays explores the Gothic tradition in the writings of the long twentieth century, tracing the history of a modern Gothic by linking it with literary modernism and the works of Oscar Wilde, Bram Stoker, Samuel Beckett, and the like.

Edmund Wilson
A Life in Literature
Lewis M. Dabney
“There are echoes of Wilson’s infectious curiosity and sky-high standards in the eloquently paced, beautifully considered prose of this masterful biography. The quicksilver movement of Dabney’s sentences is propelled by deep, complex ideas.” —Harper’s Magazine

2007 672 pp., 16 halftones
978-0-8018-8741-3 $25.00 paperback

Rethinking Tragedy
edited by Rita Felski
This groundbreaking collection provokes a major reassessment of the significance of tragedy and the tragic in late modernity. A distinguished group of scholars and theorists extend the discussion of tragedy beyond its usual parameters to include film, popular culture, and contemporary politics.

Euripides, Freud, and the Romance of Belonging
Victoria Pedrick
Pedrick studies the construction of identity and the origins of the primal trauma in two texts, the Ion and Freud’s case history of the Wolf Man. She challenges the conventional psychoanalytic theory of the development of the individual within the family and presents a richer and more complex economy of exchange between the parent and the child.

978-0-8018-8594-5 $60.00 hardcover

Theories of Memory
A Reader
edited by Michael Rossington and Anne Whitehead
“This collection provides an extensive historical and theoretical framework for the study of memory. It traces the exciting history of the philosophical problematisation of memory as well as its insistent and urgent demand to be recognized and defined.” —Cathy Caruth, Emory University

Theory of the Novel
A Historical Approach
edited by Michael McKeon

“As comprehensive an account of the genre as you could wish. What a marvelous collection and what a skillful editor McKeon is, marshalling the essays into an argument for the novel as a distinct ‘literary historical genre’ rather than as one element in a bland, all-embracing narrative theory.”

—Times Higher Education Supplement

978-0-8018-6397-4 $31.95 paperback
Body and Story
The Ethics and Practice of Theoretical Conflict
Richard Terdiman
Terdiman explores the tension between what seem two fundamentally different ways of understanding the world: as physical reality and as representation in language. In demonstrating the complicated relationship between these two perspectives, he also offers a new approach to the problem of conflicts between irreconcilable but equally compelling theoretical ideas.

978-0-8018-8543-3 $25.00 paperback

History Out of Joint
Essays on the Use and Abuse of History
Sande Cohen
Cohen considers the ways in which historical narratives summon up a past and lay down a future in the ever-multiplying intellectual debates of contemporary public culture.

The Frame of Art
Fictions of Aesthetic Experience, 1750–1815
David Marshall
These insightful readings of Charlotte Lennox, Jean-Jacques Rousseau, Gotthold Lessing, Lord Kames, Henry Mackenzie, David Hume, Jane Austen, and the theorists of the picturesque trace the dramatization of aesthetic experience and the desire to design one’s life as if it were a work of art—a painting, a play, or a novel.

2005 272 pp., 4 halftones
978-0-8018-8233-3 $50.00 hardcover

The Global Eighteenth Century
edited by Felicity A. Nussbaum
“A fascinating collection of 21 scholarly essays that collectively argue that globalization—‘the movement of ideas across borders over time’—really began in the period between England’s Restoration in 1660 and the European Revolutions of 1830.”

978-0-8018-8269-2 $25.00 paperback

Romantic Moods
Paranoia, Trauma, and Melancholy, 1790–1840
Thomas Pfau
Drawing on a multifaceted philosophical tradition ranging from Kant to Hegel to Heidegger—incorporating as well the psychosocial analyses of Freud, Benjamin, and Adorno—Pfau reinterprets the evolution of British and German Romanticism as a progress through three successive dominant moods, each manifested in the “voice” of historical moment.

2005 592 pp., 15 halftones
978-0-8018-8197-8 $65.00 hardcover
Menippean Satire Reconsidered
From Antiquity to the Eighteenth Century
Howard D. Weinbrot

Weinbrot offers a new and lucid account of Menippean satire. He argues that in the wake of twentieth-century critics, notably Frye and Bakhtin, this complex literary category has been too broadly associated with “philosophic ideas” expressed in dialogic voices or languages and proposes instead more rigorous but fluid criteria that incorporate several key elements.

2005 400 pp. 978-0-8018-8210-4 $60.00 hardcover

The Johns Hopkins Guide to Literary Theory and Criticism second edition
edited by Michael Groden, Martin Kreiswirth, and Imre Szeman

“The new version of Guide will provide a new generation of scholars and students with an exhaustive reference, but it will also serve as a valuable and critical measurement of the discipline.”

The Culture of Classicism
Ancient Greece and Rome in American Intellectual Life, 1780–1910
Caroline Winterer
“A conscientious and important history of the study of classicism in America during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries... Winterer sheds light on the virtual disappearance of the ancients from the modern imagination.”
—Wall Street Journal
978-0-8018-7889-3 $22.95 paperback

Writing History, Writing Trauma
Dominick LaCapra
“Thoughtful and compelling... LaCapra’s discussions of historiography, philosophy, and psychoanalysis are extraordinarily lucid, and this book is a brilliant example of some of the capabilities of contemporary trauma theory in analyzing representations of trauma.”
—Tikkun
978-0-8018-6496-4 $21.95 paperback

Girls, Boys, Books, Toys
Gender in Children’s Literature and Culture
edited by Beverly Lyon Clark and Margaret R. Higonnet

978-0-8018-6526-8 $25.00 paperback

Of Grammatology
corrected edition
Jacques Derrida
translated by Gayatri Chakravorty Spivak
“Reading Derrida was the shock of a decentering, the critical shift into a world of the interminable movement of difference, the crisis of any closure. Of Grammatology was and remains the most tightly worked... and exemplary... demonstration of the science of this shift and crisis.”
—Canto
978-0-8018-5830-7 $24.95 paperback

Laocoön
An Essay on the Limits of Painting and Poetry

Inventing Agency, Inventing Genre
Paula R. Backscheider

This groundbreaking study offers a broad view of the writing and careers of eighteenth-century women poets, casting a new light on the ways in which poetry was read and enjoyed, on changing poetic tastes in British culture, and on the development of both major and “minor” poetic genres and traditions.

The Third Citizen
Shakespeare’s Theater and the Early Modern House of Commons
Oliver Arnold

In magisterial readings of Titus Andronicus, Julius Caesar, Coriolanus, and the First Tetralogy, Arnold discovers a new Shakespeare who was neither a conservative apologist for monarchy nor a prescient, liberal champion of the House of Commons but instead a radical thinker and artist who demystified the ideology of political representation in the moment of its first flowering.

Staging Governance
Theatrical Imperialism in London, 1770–1800
Daniel O’Quinn

Between 1770 and 1800, transformations in the relationship between metropolitan British society and its colonial holdings, and in the concept of the nation itself, left Britons with a new sense of themselves. Over the same period, the consolidation of the middle classes was accompanied by growing social constraints on sexuality and family life. Staging Governance locates the intersection of these two trends in the representation of British India on the London stage.

WHEN IT COMES TO LITERATURE, WE SPEAK VOLUMES

REBIRTH OF A JOURNAL! NOW AT THE JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY PRESS

The Hopkins Review

John T. Irwin, Brad Leithauser, Alice McDermott, Jean McGarry, Mary Jo Salter, and Dave Smith, Editors; Glenn Blake, Managing Editor / The original Hopkins Review was a literary quarterly published by the Johns Hopkins Writing Seminars from 1947 to 1953. The Writing Seminars and the Johns Hopkins University Press in a joint venture are bringing the magazine back into existence as The Hopkins Review (New Series), a quarterly that publishes fiction, poetry, memoirs, essays on literature, drama, film, the visual arts, music, dance, and reviews of books in all these areas, as well as reviews of performances and exhibits. Annual subscriptions: $25.00, individuals (print or online); $50.00, institutions (print or online); $70.00, institutions (print & online). • Published quarterly. Volume 1 (2008). • Print ISSN: 1939-6589

The Bulletin of the Center for Children’s Books

Deborah Stevenson, Editor / The Bulletin of the Center for Children’s Books is devoted to the review of current books for children. Providing concise summaries and critical evaluations, this invaluable resource assists readers with questions regarding the ever-evolving field of children’s literature. Each issue includes expert reviews of selected books by a world-renowned staff, giving in-depth looks at content, reading level, strengths and weaknesses, and quality of format, as well as suggestions for curricular use. The Bulletin also includes The Big Picture—a monthly editorial that looks at titles and trends; Professional Connections—a section featuring bibliographies, reviews of new professional books, and abstracts of research articles; and a Subject and Use Index—an index that allows readers to easily locate information by referring to subjects, curricular use, and genres. Annual subscriptions: $53.00, individuals (print or online); $15.00, students (with copy of ID); $85.00, institutions (print or online); $119.00, institutions (print & online). • Published eleven times a year (except August). Volume 61 (2007/2008). • ISSN: 0008-9036 / E-ISSN: 1558-6766

AWARD-WINNING JOURNAL!

Callaloo: A Journal of African Diaspora Arts and Letters

Charles H. Rowell, Editor / The premier African and African-American literary journal, Callaloo publishes original works by, and critical studies of, black writers worldwide. Frequent annotated bibliographies, special thematic issues, and original art and photography are some of the features of this highly acclaimed international showcase of arts and letters. The special issue on “Jazz Poetics” (25.1) was recognized as a best special issue by CELJ (Council of Editors of Learned Journals); and “The Confederate Flag Controversy” issue (24.1) received honorable mention in the best single issue category from The Association of American Publishers. Annual subscriptions: $45.00, individuals (print or online); $140.00, institutions (print or online); $196.00, institutions (print & online). • Published quarterly. Volume 31 (2008). • ISSN: 0161-2492 / E-ISSN: 1080-6512

diacritics: A Review of Contemporary Criticism

Bruno Bosteels, Editor / For more than thirty years, diacritics has been an exceptional and influential forum for scholars writing on the problems of literary criticism. Each issue features comparison and analysis of contemporary literary theory. Contributors present their own positions on the theoretical concerns raised. Annual subscriptions: $30.00, individuals (print or online); $108.00, institutions (print or online); $151.20, institutions (print & online). • Published quarterly. • ISSN: 0300-7162 / E-ISSN: 1080-6539
