

The MLN Hispanic Issue welcomes submissions of original articles on Latin American and Iberian literatures and cultures, including issues of theory, method, interpretation, and the relation of literary studies to other disciplines such as philosophy, anthropology, media studies, or political science. Submissions must be print-ready upon receipt, which includes being formatted according to the most recent edition of the MLA Stylebook. Only submissions of 9,000 words or less, including notes, will be considered for publication. Submissions must be sent by email as electronic attachments in MS Word along with a 100-word abstract. Submissions are accepted throughout the year, but they must arrive by August 1 to be considered for inclusion in the following Hispanic Issue, published yearly in March. Submissions undergo preliminary review by the editorial board. Manuscripts selected for double-blind peer review are sent to at least one anonymous reader. Final decisions on manuscripts are made by the editors on the basis of one or more readers' reports, and may be expected within approximately four months of the annual deadline. The MLN Hispanic Issue only accepts original, article-length submissions that are not under consideration elsewhere. We do not accept "notes," review essays, or reports. Unsolicited book reviews will be considered on a case by case basis.
