

KENNEDY INSTITUTE OF ETHICS JOURNAL

Editor: Rebecca Kukla, KENNEDY INSTITUTE OF ETHICS, GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY

Now in its third decade of publication, the Kennedy Institute of Ethics Journal (KIEJ) is an interdisciplinary quarterly journal of the Joseph P. and Rose F. Kennedy Institute of Ethics at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C. It publishes philosophically rigorous and empirically informed articles in all areas of bioethics (broadly construed) and on related issues in practical ethics. The KIEJ has recently focused on publishing papers that explore ethical and social issues in science practice, as well as philosophical approaches to health, environmental, and science policy, especially those which situate philosophical and ethical issues in a global context.

Published quarterly in March, June, September, and December for the Joseph P. and Rose F. Kennedy Institute of Ethics. Volume 29 (2019).
